

Adam Raff, MD, PhD

Adam B. Raff MD, PhD is a board-certified dermatologist and Instructor in Dermatology at Harvard Medical School. Dr. Raff graduated summa cum laude with Phi Beta Kappa honors from Georgetown University where he earned a BS in Biology. He obtained his MD/PhD with Alpha Omega Alpha honors at the University of Southern California. Dr. Raff received his PhD in systems biology and disease studying how human papillomavirus evades the immune system. He completed his Internal Medicine internship at Kaiser Permanente Los Angeles Medical Center and Dermatology residency at the Harvard Combined Dermatology Program.